

Wave after wave. Laugh after laugh. Time after time. And as you do so, watch how the audience energy lifts. How the room swells with a palpable, positive vibe. And how the audience decibel level climbs. . . and climbs. Whether opening the general session - introducing executives - staging audience participation segments - facilitating interactive challenges and games - moderating leadership discussions – or delivering segues that underscore the objectives of the session, Frazier delivers meetings with poise, power and panache.

With over 22 years of hosting experience Frazier's got the credentials, the charisma and the comedy that make meeting messages resonate with audiences. He speaks; they listen. He influences, they act. It's a kinetic kind of thing and a sound bet. He is a skilled communicator with a pro-active attitude and a high level of confidence working with large audiences.

An absolute delight, Frazier is undoubtedly the consummate host of general sessions, the affable moderator of executive panels and the marvel of emcees for awards ceremonies. He possesses a strong self-assured and assertive personality with the ability to multi-task and troubleshoot.

His intelligence and vibrancy create an instant and effortless rapport with the audience. His charm and gracious introductions provide smooth transitions that allow executives to easily slip into their roles as keynotes. And his congenial presence adds the seamless thread that holds a meeting together, keeping it tight, keeping it smart, and keeping it funny. Pair all of that with his sharp sense of humour and ability to improve and he can take moments of important material and make them seriously humorous and always memorable. In short, he is competent at establishing brand identity and elevating corporate presence & image.

As host, he's the master performer and the common denominator who can cultivate an engaging environment where everyone is transfixed on the message and meeting purpose. As moderator, he's the diplomat and agent for a lively and interesting dialogue amongst executives. And as awards ceremony emcee, he's the quintessential, silver-tongued host who can lift the significance of the honour and broaden a winner's smile! He's got it all and wrapped up in a formula that gives meetings continuity, messages potency and presentations relevance.

Humorist Keynote Breaking it down.....

When work life gets busy or complicated or stressful; Frazier says break it down into the small stuff so it won't look so overwhelming. And as a humorist keynote, that's what Frazier does. He breaks down the big things into small pieces. Hysterical business-related bits on acronyms, partnership, teamwork, communication, language, the power of numbers and more. The end result is an intuitive lesson on learning to laugh. On maintaining a sense of humour in the workplace. On addressing one little thing at a time. His bright and clear performance is a release valve for stress and a motivator for moving on one sure step after another. As an accomplished expert in Corporate Training with extensive knowledge of planning, organizing, directing and executing a wide range of activities, he certainly has a knack for lightening the load.

So the next time you're looking for the master of corporate events and meetings, break out of the ordinary and go to the 'go-to MC', Frazier Martins. Rest assured, you'll be introducing the most polished component to staging a smooth and successful meeting, Ever.
